Michael A. Krysko : American Radio in China: International Encounters with Technology and Communications, 1919-41 (Palgrave Studies in the History of the Media) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised American Radio in China: International Encounters with

Technology and Communications, 1919-41 (Palgrave Studies in the History of the Media):

Interwar era efforts to expand US radio into China floundered in the face of flawed US policies and approaches. Situated at the intersection of media studies, technology studies, and US foreign relations, this study frames the ill-fated radio initiatives as symptomatic of an increasingly troubled US-East Asian relationship before the Pacific War.

'..a valuable contribution to the scholarship on cultural diplomacy...This engaging account of American broadcasting reveals a complex picture of radio's impact in China.' -Kelly Ann Long, Colorado State University, Journal of American History
