Roberta and Simone Blach : The Memoirs of Alice Guy Blach before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Memoirs of Alice Guy Blach:

Provides an original, first-hand view of the potential that motion pictures offered women from the Victorian era, and how, ultimately, the industry rejected one of its first and most important pioneers. Alice Guy Blach was not only the world's first female director, but in 1896, she became the first of either sex to direct a fictional film. As the first director with the Gaumont Company in Paris, Alice Guy Blach served as an influential figure in French film history, making more than 300 films, including some of the earliest sound subjects from the turn of the century. She continued her career in the United States, founding the Solax Company in 1910, and producing and directing 350 more films. Complementing the text are reprints of contemporary articles on Alice Guy Blach from the American trade press, a reminiscence by her daughter, a brief evaluation of the career of her husband, Herbert Blach and a complete filmography.
